The Power of Language

It's a great pleasure to welcome back Dave Murphy whose insights are always fascinating

Language is something we take for granted as simply the only means of communication humans possess, but what if there is much more to it.

This is a discussion that covers the origins of language, the truth about the languages that we speak today and how they are used to limit, dis-empower and trap ourselves every time we speak.

Dave will also be revealing that there is a primary language of mankind which we were all once aware of and is documented in the most unlikely of places.
